

[00:00:03.070] - Speaker 1
Saving money.

[00:00:08.430] - Speaker 1
And that's why this washable nontoxic glue stick is so special to me. Did she forget it was shown? Tell again. Definitely. Every time she forgets, she just chooses something from her desk for show intel.

[00:00:25.320] - Speaker 1
I brought this.

[00:00:31.450] - Speaker 1
Did your parents buy it for you? Did you steal it? Did you find it in an abandoned mine? No, I bought it myself. How?

[00:00:39.150] - Speaker 1
By saving money. Was it hard? It sounds hard. First I had to find a place to keep the money. Like in the abandoned mine?

[00:00:49.040] - Speaker 1
No, like a piggy bank. Duh. Piggy banks work. But I saved my money in an account at my credit union. The hard part was deciding to save every time I had a little bit of money.

[00:01:02.790] - Speaker 1
Like birthday money, your allowance money from your paper route. It was so hard not to spend it right away. I just close my eyes and think about how instead of buying something small now, I could buy something really big later. But wouldn't that take a really long time? Yes, but that's how you know if you really want something.

[00:01:24.110] - Speaker 1
If you're not willing to save up for something, then it's probably not that important to you. Yes. Can I have it? No. Can you just give it to me?

[00:01:35.190] - Speaker 1
No. Can I borrow it for a very long time? Sam, you'll have to save up if you want to get your own. But in the meantime, we can all take turns.

[00:01:52.970] - Speaker 1
When people save money, they give up the chance to buy something now in order to buy something later. What would you like to save money for?